

Apollo Tyres Not Raising Funds, Still Looking to Expand

India's Apollo Tyres has dropped plans – for now – to raise $150 million intended for business expansion. The fund raising would have been through a Qualified Institutional Buyers offering. Apollo said it dropped the scheme due to “volatile market conditions.” At the same time, Apollo said it will press on with unspecified expansion plans both in India and internationally.