

Japan crude rubber stocks at two-year low

TOKYO, Oct 19 (Reuters) – Crude rubber inventories at Japanese ports fell to a two-year low of 5,706 tonnes on Oct. 10, having fallen 354 tonnes over the previous 10 days, Rubber Trade Association data showed on Friday.

Stocks were at their lowest level after touching 4,144 tonnes in August 2010.

They have been declining since topping 15,000 tonnes on May 10.
